About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that set of discs. Discs may be purchased individually or as sets.

Please Note:

Submitter information is provided to help in the coordination of personal family history research. Use of this information for any other purpose, including marketing, advertising, or commercial solicitation, is strictly prohibited.

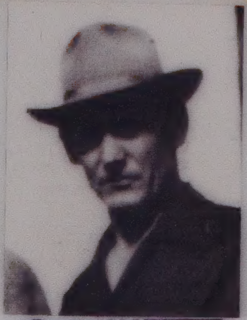
Memorial Obituary



Entered Into Eternal Rest
Saturday, March 21, 1970

John Nelson

John S. Nelson, 67, of Route 1 Bedford (Spice Valley Township), died at 4:50 p.m. Saturday at the Bloomington Hospital. Death followed an illness of one year.

A native of Jackson County, Mr. Nelson was born Dec. 2 1902 to John O. and Ida Florence Brown Nelson. He was a retired farmer. He married twice. He was first married to Hazel Garrett. His second marriage was to Bertha M. Staggs on Aug. 8, 1931 at Brownstown and she survives.

Other survivors include one son, David O. Nelson of Indianapolis; one daughter, Mrs. Anthony (Virginia) Reczak of Aurora, Colorado; seven grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Raymond (Gladys) Allen of Route 5, Bedford, and Mrs. Daisy Russell, of Bedford; two half-brothers, Steven Wheeler of Lyons, and Paul Wheeler of Bloomfield; three half-sisters, Mrs. Harold (Alberta) Standiford, Newberry, Mrs. Buren (Juanita) Williams of Elnore, and Mrs. Alvin (Wilma Jean) Boyles of Elnora and several nieces, nephews, and cousins. One brother and two half-sisters preceded him in death.

He attended the Baptist Church and was a past member of the Iron Workers Union Local No. 41 of Gary.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Ferguson - Lee Funeral Home with Rev. Floyd Plake officiating. Burial will be in the Leesville Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Ferguson - Lee Funeral Home after 4 p.m. today.

They are not lost who find the light of sun and stars and God.

Rest In Peace

BEYOND THE SUNSET

Should you go first and I remain,
to walk the road alone,
I'll live in memories garden, dear,
with happy days we've known.
In spring I'll wait for roses red, when
faded, the lilacs blue.
In early fall when brown leaves fall,
I'll catch a glimpse of you.
Should you go first and I remain, for
battles to be fought,
Each thing you ve touched along the
way will be a hallowed spot.
I'll hear your voice, I'll see your
smile, tho blindly I may grope,
The memory of your helping hand
will buoy me on with hope.
Should you go first and I remain,
one thing I'll have you do:
Walk slowly down that long long
path, for soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
so I may take the same.
For someday down that lonely road,
you'll hear me call your name.

Green Tour - East Lawrence County

Starts at Bedford Chamber of Commerce
Welcome to the "Green Tour" a self-guided tour sponsored by the Lawrence County Tourism Commission. This tour, the "Green Tour," will travel to the eastern part of Lawrence County, take you to the first town site in the county (Leesville), leave the county briefly and enter neighboring Jackson County, travel through some scenic forest areas, go over "Devils Backbone," take you to a cemetery with some interesting tombstones and end up at Spring Mill State Park. The entire trip, starting and ending at the Bedford Area Chamber of Commerce office runs approximately 45 miles. You should allow at least 4 hours travel time for the tour, not counting any time you may want to spend at Spring Mill State Park. Remember this is the "Green Tour" so all of your checkpoints will be on green signs. WE HOPE YOU ENJOY YOUR VISIT TO PARTS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY.

START. Start your tour in front of the Bedford Area Chamber of Commerce office. Go east on US 50 (Chamber of Commerce is on US 50). Go 1.2 miles to the green sign marked as Checkpoint 1. GREEN CHECKPOINT ONE. You should be near the entrance to Otis Park. (It will be on your right.) Go to the entrance to the park, pull over to the side of the road and listen to the rest of this part of your tape, then take the short drive in the park. Otis Park was a gift from newspaper owner Fred B. Otis to the City of Bedford on May 13, 1937. The mansion was built in 1865 by William A. Ragsdale. The property was purchased in 1875 by Nathan Hall who named the mansion "Pine Hall." The building is currently being used as an event facility by the City of Bedford. The building is presently being referred to as "Pine Hall" or the "Red Brick." The Band Shell on the left as you first enter the park is an outstanding example of the use of Indiana Limestone. The Bedford Park Department sponsors music concerts at the band shell during the summer. Drive through the entrance, past the Red Brick and the golf course clubhouse. Continue along the road as it runs beside the first hole and observe one of the finest golf courses in Indiana. Continue your drive through the golf course until you reach the shelter house at the top of the hill, then return to the GREEN CHECKPOINT SIGN #1. Turn off your tape recorder until you return to Checkpoint 1. You should now be at the sign Green Checkpoint 1 and ready to go to Checkpoint 2. You are to travel along US Highway 50 in an easterly direction, that is, away from Bedford. You will drive 10 miles along Hwy. 50 to your next checkpoint, Green Checkpoint 2. There are no scheduled stops along this part of your trip but let us tell you some of the things you may see along the way. 1.3 miles after you leave Green Checkpoint 1, you will see a blue historical marker along the right side of the road. This marker marks the site of the home of James Gregory, one of the founding fathers of Lawrence County and his home was the site of the organizational meetings for Lawrence County. Approximately 3.5 miles from Checkpoint 1 you will pass the McKnight house on the right. This house was built of limestone and brick from 1860 - 1862. This is a fine example of the Italian style of architecture. NOTE! This home is private property and is not open to the general public. GREEN CHECKPOINT TWO. Turn right (south) from US 50 to County Road 850. From here you will drive 2.4 miles to your next checkpoint (Green Checkpoint 3). Total miles driven 13.6 miles when you arrive at Green Checkpoint 3. A few hundred yards away from Green Checkpoint 3 you will go through the village of Leesville. Leesville was originally built around 1810 to be a fort for protection of the settlers from Indians. The first settlers included Daniel Guthrie and Jacob and William Flinn. The attack of the Indians, called the Leesville Indian Massacre, occurred in mid-March 1813. The attack was carried out by Yellow Beaver, Potawatomi, who is also blamed for the attack on the Huffman family at Pigeon Roost that same month. Mr. Guthrie suffered a gunshot wound to the chest, but was rescued by his wife who managed to take cover in a blockhouse. Josiah Flinn, son of William Flinn, a sixteen-year-old, was tomahawked and scalped and Jacob Flinn, a sixteen-year-old son was taken prisoner and marched 175 miles to the main village of the Potawatomi's. Four months later he managed to escape walking back to Leesville and existing on roots and plants.

As best historians can determine, the old fort was a few hundred yards west of the present town site.

GREEN CHECKPOINT THREE. At this point turn left (east) and travel approximately 1.3 miles to Green Checkpoint 4. At that point you will be at the Hemlock Nature Preserve. You will also be in our neighboring county, Jackson County.

GREEN CHECKPOINT FOUR. You are now at Hemlock Nature Preserve. Enter the parking lot on the north side of the road. Look through the dense forest to the massive hemlock trees. This area is beautiful for quiet exploring. The largest hemlock is 33" in diameter at four feet above the ground level and reached a height of approximately 97 feet. Other plants to appreciate in the area are the rare flowering raspberry and some varieties of orchids. Because of the proximity of the bluffs to the Mount Carmel Fault, you may see many fossils and geodes. If you need more information about the geology of the area consult the Field Guide to the Mount Carmel Fault of Southern Indiana by Shaver and Austin and published as Indiana Geological Survey #13. After you have enjoyed your visit to Hemlock Nature Preserve, return to Green Checkpoint 3.

SECOND TIME AT GREEN CHECKPOINT THREE. You will now turn left (south) and travel 4.2 miles to a T (Checkpoint 5). This will be a scenic drive though some fine pastoral and wooded areas.

GREEN CHECKPOINT FIVE. At the T in the road, turn left (east) and proceed to the village of Fort Ritner which is 1.2 miles and at Green Checkpoint 6.

GREEN CHECKPOINT SIX. Historians cannot agree on either the cause of the naming of Fort Ritner or even of the spelling of it. Some think it was one of a series of forts built to protect early settlers from Indians similar to the fort at Leesville and Vallonia in Jackson County. It probably attained its largest population and commercial success during the construction of the "Big Tunnel." This tunnel was built by the O & M Railroad and still is a part of the CSX Rail System. While you are in Fort Ritner, you might want to visit Hudson's General Store and post office. It's about the only place around where you can get a cold drink. After you have visited Hudson's store, proceed under the railroad and turn right (west) and follow this road (County Road L9E6S) 1 mile, until you arrive at Green Checkpoint 7.

GREEN CHECKPOINT SEVEN. At this point, you should be at a T with the railroad on your right. The east portal to the "big tunnel" is close by. Turn right (north) and go under the railroad. As soon as you go under the railroad if you look to your right you will see an area that looks like it was once the sight of a home. It was the sight of a hotel. In the early days of railroading before pullman carts, many people elected to get off the train at night, stay at a hotel near the railroad and then catch the train the next morning. Continue on this road approximately one mile to Green Checkpoint 8.

GREEN CHECKPOINT EIGHT. At Green Checkpoint 8, turn let (west). This is known as the "Devil's Backbone" road. The Devils Backbone refers to about one mile stretch of road just a few feet wide and a long way down to the bottom. On your left, it drops nearly straight down several hundred feet to the White River. On your right, it drops nearly straight down several hundred feet to the Guthrie Creek. Continue along this road 2.5 miles until you arrive at Green Checkpoint 9.

GREEN CHECKPOINT NINE. Turn left (south) onto what is known as Tunnelton Road. This will take you through the village of Tunnelton, named because it is the town between the two tunnels, the Big Tunnel and the little tunnel. Construction of the tunnels was done in the 1850's. Maintenance of the little tunnel to the west of Tunnelton became too expensive and the railroad literally pulled the tunnel making it a cut instead of a tunnel. The village of Tunnelton began as a work camp for construction of the tunnels. On October 6, 1856, the first Ohio and Mississippi train passed through the Big Tunnel with disastrous results. The train stalled halfway through the tunnel with smoke and soot ruining the passenger's clothing and everyone was forced to walk out. Watch out for the ghosts...the curved railroad tunnel is believed to be haunted. In 1908, a watchman, Henry Dixon, was killed in the tunnel. He still watches the curves! During World War I, a military guard was placed at the Big Tunnel to prevent sabotage. The railroad was a major artery for troop movement from west to east. The large brick and stone mansion in Tunnelton is known as the Alfred Guthrie mansion. This brick home was built in 1879 and is one of the most beautiful illustrations of Italianate architecture in the area. This mansion was one regularly visited by an Earlham College professor that studied bats. The house was once the home of a large colony of bats. They were banded and tracked to study their migration habits. NOTE! This is a private residence and not open to the general public. When you leave Tunnelton heading south, you will go underneath the railroad, travel 100 yards and then turn right, crossing the White River Bridge. Just beyond the river bridge (1.7 miles), you will be at Green Checkpoint 10.

GREEN CHECKPOINT TEN. By this time you should have traveled approximately 28 miles. At checkpoint 10 you should be at a Y in the road, turn left (southeast). You should travel approximately 2.5 miles where you will see Green Checkpoint 11. At that time you will be in "Downtown Bono."

GREEN CHECKPOINT ELEVEN. Welcome to Green Checkpoint 11 in beautiful "Downtown Bono." For several years Bono was the commercial center of this area. Bono's commercial success at the time was probably due to its location on the White River. Bono was one of several cities considered for the location of the capital of the State of Indiana. After losing that vote to Indianapolis and seeing transportation moving from rivers to land based roads, Bono had apparently seen its best days. At Green Checkpoint 11, turn right (south) on County Road L9S8E. This will take you to Green Checkpoint 12, site of the Talbott Cemetery.

GREEN CHECKPOINT TWELVE. Welcome to Talbott Cemetery, an early Lawrence County cemetery. It was put of your tour because of some interesting tombstones, showing some intricate limestone carvings. Probably the most interesting monument is the David Huston monument located at the center of the cemetery. Huston was an area farmer and a bachelor who wished to be remembered for his prowess as a fox hunter. The base of the monument depicts three hounds in pursuit of a fox. This monument was made form whetstone, which actually pre-dates the limestone industry. Stroll all through the cemetery. We think you will find it interesting. After you have completed your visit at the Talbott Cemetery, return back to Green Checkpoint 11 at Bono and then continue returning back to Green Checkpoint 10, which is the Y in the road, just south of the White River bridge. At that point, continue in a westerly direction on County Road L7E6S and continue to follow this blacktop road (3.7 miles) until you arrive at Green Checkpoint 13, Lawrenceport. This will be a scenic drive, part of which will be on top of a large bluff overlooking the White River. As you near Lawrenceport, you will pass some very popular fishing areas on the White River. You will also pass the site of the old dam and grist mill on the White River, which for awhile contributed to the economic success of Lawrenceport. Farmers, upstream from the Lawrenceport dam felt the dam contributed in a negative way to the spring flooding of their river bottom land. Because of this, they dynamited the dam which effectively put the Lawrenceport grist mill out of business. All this happened in the 19th century.

GREEN CHECKPOINT THIRTEEN. By this time you should have traveled approximately 39 miles and you should be in "Downtown Lawrenceport." Lawrenceport was once one of Lawrence County's thriving communities. It like others went the way of towns located on the river. Nearby is Bishop Roberts, a church camp, better known to many Methodists as Rivervale. Just south of Lawrenceport and not on your tour is Bishop Roberts's home, now in terrible disrepair. Roberts was an early Methodist bishop. When you leave Lawrenceport, continue traveling in a westerly direction, which means continue traveling on the same road on which you came into town. About a mile out of Lawrenceport, this road will start going in a due south direction. Continue on this road in this southerly direction until you arrive at Indiana Hwy. 60. As you travel on this County Road (know known as 400E), you will travel by the eastern limits of Spring Mill State Park. When you arrive at Highway 60, you have completed this tour. Before returning to the Bedford Area Chamber of Commerce, may we suggest you make a side trip to Spring Mill State Park. This could be a whole day's entertainment in itself. The old operating grist mill is not only historic, but interesting. The old town that once centered around the mill and later ghosted, has been reconditioned to its original state. The lodging and food at the Spring Mill Inn is fabulous. We hope you have enjoyed your tour.

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that set of discs. Discs may be purchased individually or as sets.

Please Note:

Submitter information is provided to help in the coordination of personal family history research. Use of this information for any other purpose, including marketing, advertising, or commercial solicitation, is strictly prohibited.

Rest In Peace

BEYOND THE SUNSET

Should you go first and I remain,
to walk the road alone,
I'll live in memories garden, dear,
with happy days we've known.
In spring I'll wait for roses red, when
faded, the lilacs blue.
In early fall when brown leaves fall,
I'll catch a glimpse of you.
Should you go first and I remain, for
battles to be fought,
Each thing you ve touched along the
way will be a hallowed spot.
I'll hear your voice, I'll see your
smile, tho blindly I may grope,
The memory of your helping hand
will buoy me on with hope.
Should you go first and I remain,
one thing I'll have you do:
Walk slowly down that long long
path, for soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
so I may take the same.
For someday down that lonely road,
you'll hear me call your name.

In Remembrance

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives through
God hath not promised
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love . . .

John C. Nelson.

The plaintiff herein complains of the defendant and says:

That plaintiff and defendant were duly married on the 26th day of July, 1900 and cohabited as husband wife until the 16th day of July, 1913, on which date they separated and have not since been and are not now cohabiting as husband and wife.

Plaintiff says that on the date of their said separation, and on many occasions prior thereto, said defendant was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of this plaintiff, in this, to-wit: That he choked and beat plaintiff and on the date of the said separation, struck at plaintiff with a knife; that said defendant was a habitual drunkard and was quarrelsome and disagreeable; that as the fruits of said marriage there was born to plaintiff and defendant the following named children, to-wit: John, age 11 years; Gladys, age 8 years; Daisy, age 6 years, and Bernice, age four months; that defendant is not a fit person to have the care, custody and control of said children, and that this plaintiff is a fit person to have such care, custody and control.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays that the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between plaintiff and defendant be dissolved, that plaintiff be granted an absolute divorce from said defendant; that she be given the care, custody and control of said children, and for all other proper relief.

The Oise-Aisne American Cemetery and Memorial is an American military cemetery in northern France. Plots A through D contains the graves of 6,012 American soldiers who died while fighting in this vicinity during World War I, 597 of which were not identified, as well as a monument for 241 Americans who were missing in action during battles in the same area and whose remains were never recovered. Included among the soldiers here who lost their lives is poet Joyce Kilmer.

A graveyard for former soldiers that were dishonorably discharged and executed for crimes committed during World War II, referred to as Plot E, is nearby. Private Eddie Slovik, the only American soldier executed for desertion during World War II, was buried there until 1987.

Site

The Oise-Aisne American Cemetery and Memorial lies one and a half miles east of Fère-en-Tardenois, Aisne, Picardy, France and about 14 miles (23 km) northeast of Château-Thierry. It is approximately 70 miles (110 km) northeast of Paris.

The grounds extend to 36.5 acres (148,000 m^2) and this is the second of eight large permanent American World War I military cemeteries that are not in the United States. It was initially established on August 2, 1918 by the 42nd Division as a temporary cemetery, but was retained as a permanent cemetery by Congress in 1921. The French government provides the site at no cost for use as a military cemetery.[1] The memorials were designed by Cram and Ferguson and the landscape architect was George Gibbs, Jr.

The cemetery is generally rectangular in shape. The chapel, museum and grave plots are one side of the road and a parking area and the service facilities on the other side. The plots are divided by a walkway with a circular island of grass in the middle. The sides of the cemetery include paths, a privet hedge, and a low stone wall.

War dead buried at this site

Most of the 6,012 soldiers and support personnel honorably interred at this site died fighting during the Second Battle of the Marne and the Oise-Aisne campaign. The site also includes American servicemen who were buried in temporary cemeteries and were moved to this site when their families requested that they be buried overseas. All forty-eight of the states that existed at the time, as well as the District of Columbia, are represented. Stars of David mark graves of Jewish soldiers, all others have a Latin Cross. The headstones are made from white marble quarried in Carrara, Italy.

Grave of an unknown G.I.

597 graves at this site are for unknown soldiers. Like the Tomb of the Unknowns in Arlington, Virginia, the graves are marked:

HERE RESTS IN HONORED GLORY AN AMERICAN SOLDIER KNOWN BUT TO GOD[1]

The memorial

At the far end of the cemetery there is a semi-circular memorial of marble and granite in a Romanesque style. A small chapel is to the memorial's right, and a one-room museum to the left. There are ten double columns that include the Division numbers of American soldiers who fought in this sector, the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 26th, 28th, 32nd, 42nd, 77th, and 93rd. The sides of the columns are engraved with images of contemporary equipment such as gas masks and artillery shells. The columns are separated by four statues: two of soldiers, one of St. Michael and one of St. George. There is an inscription on the monument:

THESE ENDURED ALL AND GAVE ALL THAT HONOR AND JUSTICE MIGHT PREVAIL AND THAT THE WORLD MIGHT ENJOY FREEDOM AND INHERIT PEACE[1]

The rear of the monument identifies the American Battle Monuments Commission and the architects. On the friese and the exterior walls of the chapel and museum are twenty-three carved shields representing the branch and service insignia that served in this region of France, and the museum and chapel both include stylized versions of the Great Seal of the United States.

The names of 241 American soldiers missing in the area who were never found or whose bodies were never identified are inscribed on the walls of the chapel. The museum includes a dedicatory relief in English and French as well as a large map of the Aisne-Marne region.

Plot E—the "dishonorable dead"

The US Army executed a total of 98 servicemen following General Courts Martial (GCM) for murder or rape, or both, in the European Theatre of Operations during the Second World War. The remains of these servicemen were originally buried near the site of their executions, which took place in countries as far apart as England, France, Italy, and Tunisia. Eighteen of the total were executed at Shepton Mallet road and a parking area and the service facilities on the other side. The plots are divided by a walkway with a circular island of grass in the middle. The sides of the cemetery include paths, a privet hedge, and a low stone wall.

War dead buried at this site

Grave of an unknown G.I.

Most of the 6,012 soldiers and support personnel honorably interred at this site died fighting during the Second Battle of the Marne and the Oise-Aisne campaign. The site also includes American servicemen who were buried in temporary cemeteries and were moved to this site when their families requested that they be buried overseas. All forty-eight of the states that existed at the time, as well as the District of Columbia, are represented. Stars of David mark graves of Jewish soldiers, all others have a Latin Cross. The headstones are made from white marble quarried in Carrara, Italy.

597 graves at this site are for unknown soldiers. Like the Tomb of the Unknowns in Arlington, Virginia, the graves are marked:

HERE RESTS IN HONORED GLORY AN AMERICAN SOLDIER KNOWN BUT TO GOD[1]

The memorial

At the far end of the cemetery there is a semi-circular memorial of marble and granite in a Romanesque style. A small chapel is to the memorial's right, and a one-room museum to the left. There are ten double columns that include the Division numbers of American soldiers who fought in this sector, the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 26th, 28th, 32nd, 42nd, 77th, and 93rd. The sides of the columns are engraved with images of contemporary equipment such as gas masks and artillery shells. The columns are separated by four statues: two of soldiers, one of St. Michael and one of St. George. There is an inscription on the monument:

THESE ENDURED ALL AND GAVE ALL THAT HONOR AND JUSTICE MIGHT PREVAIL AND THAT THE WORLD MIGHT ENJOY FREEDOM AND INHERIT PEACE[1]

The rear of the monument identifies the American Battle Monuments Commission and the architects. On the frieze and the exterior walls of the chapel and museum are twenty-three carved shields representing the branch and service insignia that served in this region of France, and the museum and chapel both include stylized versions of the Great Seal of the United States.

The names of 241 American soldiers missing in the area who were never found or whose bodies were never identified are inscribed on the walls of the chapel. The museum includes a dedicatory relief in English and French as well as a large map of the Aisne-Marne region.

Plot E—the "dishonorable dead"

The US Army executed a total of 98 servicemen following General Courts Martial (GCM) for murder or rape, or both, in the European Theatre of Operations during the Second World War. The remains of these servicemen were originally buried near the site of their executions, which took place in countries as far apart as England, France, Italy, and Tunisia. Eighteen of the total were executed at Shepton Mallet prison and were interred at the purpose-built "Plot X" in Brookwood Cemetery. Brookwood was chosen since it was not consecrated ground and had been closed to normal military burials since August 1944. Built in a distant corner from the other plots and adjacent to tool sheds and a compost heap, executed soldiers buried in Plot X were not even given coffins, but were put into cotton mattress covers and buried under a numbered marker. Plot X had room for 100 graves and was the first real effort to specifically segregate executed Army prisoners from those who had been killed in combat.

In 1949 all of the Plot X remains were disinterred from Brookwood and were re-interred in Plot E with the other 80 executed soldiers from across Europe in a private section specifically built to hold what Graves Registration referred to as "the dishonorable dead", since (per standard practice) all had been officially dishonorably discharged from the US Army just prior to their executions.

The section is located in a 100x50 foot rectangular clearing surrounded by hedges and hidden in thick forest, accessible only through the back door of the superintendent's office. It is maintained and groomed by cemetery caretakers, though it is hidden from view and kept far separate from the nearby four plots for the honored dead of World War I. One cemetery employee described Plot E as "a house of shame" and "a perfect anti-memorial";[2] unlike the marble monuments and inscribed standing headstones of the regular plots, Plot E contains nothing but 96 flat markers and a single small granite cross. The markers are the size of index cards and bear no honors or identification, only sequential grave numbers engraved in black. No US flag is permitted to fly over the section, and the numbered graves literally lie with their backs turned to the hallowed ground of the main cemetery across the street. Visitors are not encouraged, and its existence is not mentioned on the cemetery website or guide pamphlets.[3]

The remains of two prisoners were subsequently exhumed and returned to the USA after the war. The first was David Cobb (executed at Shepton Mallet for murder on 12 March 1943) whose remains were repatriated to Dothan, Alabama in 1949. This particular repatriation appears to have been an administrative error, as permission had been specifically denied for any of the 98 to be repatriated and honorably interred. The second repatriation occurred much later and concerned the remains of Private Eddie Slovik, the only US serviceman executed for desertion in World War II and the only man buried in Plot E who was not convicted of rape or murder. In 1977, Slovik's wife Antoinette petitioned the Army and Congress for permission to rebury his body in America but was denied. Following her death in 1981, World War II veteran Bernard V. Calka took up Slovik's case, but Slovik remained buried in Grave #65 of Plot E until 1987, when the Army finally granted permission for his remains to be exhumed and repatriated to the United States for honorable burial next to his wife.[4]

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives through
God hath not promised
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love . . .

One night a man had a dream.
He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the LORD. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life.
For each scene, he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand; one belonging to him and the other to the LORD.
When the last scene of his life flashed before him, he looked back at the footprints in the sand. He noticed that many times along the path of his life there was only one set of footprints. He also noticed that it happened at the very lowest and saddest times in his life. This really bothered him and he questioned the LORD about it. "LORD, you said that once I decided to follow you, you'd walk with me all the way. But I have noticed that during the most troublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints.
I don't understand why when I needed you most you would leave me." The LORD replied,
"My precious child, I love you and I would never leave you. during your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

The inscription at the base states that the flagpole "is dedicated in memory of the veterans of all wars buried in this cemetery and presented to the citizens of Leesville and surrounding community by Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion."

Gillen Post was organized in time to hold military rites for all three brothers in Leesville Cemetery. Two of the Gillens died overseas and the other died in a hospital in the United States.

When World War I broke out, all three brothers were of draft age — William, the oldest, was 27, Inman was 24 and Frank was 22.

Inman was the first to be drafted and a short time later William was inducted. Frank wanted to join his brothers but failed to pass his physical exam. A few months later Frank tried to enter the Army again and succeeded. He was sent to France, where his brothers were serving.

Inman was in Hq. Co., 26th Infantry, Frank was a member of Company B, 112th Infantry, and William served with Battery C, Co. 344F Artillery.

Inman and Frank Gillen died in 1918 and William died in 1919. Reports indicate that Inman, while crossing the Moose River, was hit by shell fragments and killed instantly. Frank died of a bullet wound. William, believed to have suffered from German food poisoning, was shipped back to the United States at the end of the war and entered a VA hospital. He died a few months later.

The Gillen brothers were the first war veterans from Leesville to have been accorded military rites in Leesville Cemetery, where they were buried side by side.

Nelson, the other veteran from Leesville killed in World War I, was buried in Flanders Field in France.

The community of Leesville will never forget the four who gave their lives for this nation in World War I, nor will members of Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion in Bedford.

s set out four sugar maple trees side by side cross the road from the Gillen residence at edge of Leesville. A stone marker with rayed was placed under each tree.

e past 67 years the markers honoring these e men had deteriorated considerably due to and the trees had overgrown the stones, so members of Gillen Post 33 decided to do something about it.

Last year Legionnaires Dennis O'Brien (current post commander) of Bedford, Winford Dixon of Fort Ritner and Harry (Buck) Horner of Leesville removed the stone markers, cleaned them, put in new footers and new foundations under each, and made the names on the markers more readable.

In addition to the work on the markers, one of the four trees has had to be replaced in recent years.

The memory of the Gillen brothers has continued through the years. On Aug. 27, 1950, Gillen Post erected a 30-foot flagpole directly in front of the graves of the three brothers in Leesville Cemetery.

John,

We noticed Joe's obit but did not connect him. Hal remembers going over to Joe's parents' (Herman) house to play guitars. Brenda and Ramona Sue were a couple of the girls and he thinks there was another boy.

Jewell Weddell, a sister of Hubert (Hal's Dad) married Harry Wilkerson and they had no children, but they had a foster daughter named Margaret. We cannot recall her last name.

Hope this helps!
Bev

Bev,my grandmother on my dad's side was a sister to Joe's grandmother.As I was putting this Obit.in my books I looked at my notes. Joe's mother ,Roxie had a brother named Harry Wilkerson who married a Jewell Weddle.Hal's dad had a sister named Jewell.
Harry and Jewell had no kids.Could this be Hubert's sister??? These people grew up between Leesburg and Medora . John

MY GREAT GRAND MOTHER

OBITUARY IDA FLORENCE'S MOTHE

HAWE'S GREAT GRANDMA

Nancy E. Collier Brown was born Sept. 8, 1848, departed this life Oct. 2, 1925, aged 77 years and one month. She was a great sufferer for a number of years and had been confined to her bed more than three years, during which time her daughter, Anna, and family, came to her home to care for her.

OWEN

GREAT GRANPA

On Dec. 24, 1865, she was united in marriage to O. S. Brown, who survives her. To this union were born ten children, of whom five sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss of a kind and charitable mother, viz: Mrs. Myrtle Scott and Floyd Brown, of Medora; Burrell Brown, Henry Brown, John Brown, (Mrs Anna Wilkerson, (NELSON + BROWN)) of Leesville; Mrs Ida Wheeler, of Ft. Ritner; James Brown of Sparksville. Also 57 grandchilren, 30 great-grandchildren and one brother, Albert Collier, of Paris, Ill., besides a host of other relatives and friends. In 1863 she confessed her faith in Christ and became a member of Wrays church, and fifteen years ago moved her membership to Leesville, her entire life being spent in Jackson and Lawrence counties.

HAWE'S GRANDMA

MY GRANDMA WAS MARRIED TO JOHN NELSON

GRANMA

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at Leesville, INDIANA Rev. Sweet of Medora, officiating, after which the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery nearby. The bereaved ones have our sympathy.

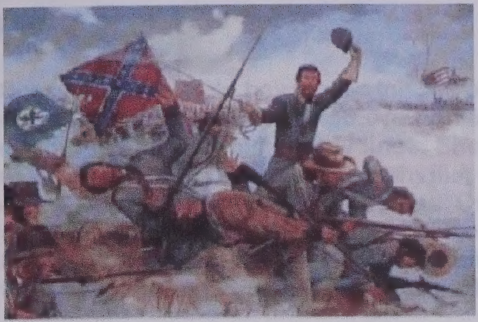
What They Said



Late on the afternoon of November 30, 1864, the Confederate Army of Tennessee smashed into a retreating Union army just south of the small town of Franklin, Tennessee.

It was a battle that never should have happened, and full of poignant incongruities:

The winning general didn't want to fight at all -- he was simply trying to get away.

The losing general ordered the attack hoping to improve his army's morale. He destroyed his army instead.

The defenders could not believe anyone would charge such a strong position. The attackers tried to tell their general that a frontal assault was suicidal.

The Confederate hero of the battle was killed while still under a cloud for arguing that the South should free and arm its slaves, to make them part of the Confederate army.

And the Union hero was a hothead with such a foul temper he had already disobeyed orders twice before he saved the entire Union position.

Sherman knew he'd have to watch his back during the march to the sea. Nathan Bedford Forrest was already raising havoc with his supply lines. Sherman detailed several units to converge on Nashville, under the overall command of George Thomas. One of these units, withdrawing north up the vital Columbia Pike through Columbia, Spring Hill, and Franklin, was under the command of General John M. Schofield.

The Attack

From the base of Winstead Hill to Franklin proper is a distance of about two miles. There are almost no natural obstacles; the axis of attack parallels the excellent Columbia Pike, which runs almost directly north into Franklin. Without impediment, the attacking Confederates were quickly at a trot, and then, at a dead run. Two brigades of Union General Wagner's division, with conflicting orders, had been posted on a slight rise about half a mile in front of the Union lines. When the charging Confederates threatened to swarm over them like a brush fire, they broke and ran up the Pike for the Union lines, with the gray-clad soldiers on their heels.

At the critical place on the battlefield, where Columbia Pike passed through the Federal entrenchments, Union defenders were unable to fire at the Rebels for fear of hitting their own retreating men. And as Union gunners and riflemen all along the rest of the line began to blast the charging Confederates, one gray-clad group in the center burst almost unopposed into, and through the Union line at the Pike, charging straight toward Emerson Opdycke.

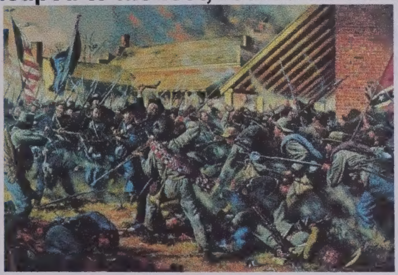
Opdycke' Tigers

Colonel Emerson Opdycke spent most of the day on November 30 mad as hell. His brigade had been the rear guard all the way from Spring Hill, under constant attack from pursuing graybacks. They had conducted the entire march through woods, over fences, and through muddy corn fields, in a line of battle, and constantly under fire. They were dead tired and surly. They stomped through the gap in the line at Columbia Pike, and flung themselves down two hundred yards north of the line, pointedly in a "safe rear" area. Opdycke had already rounded furiously on two officers who had attempted to direct him and his men to an other part of the battle line. "Well, Opdycke," the officer is supposed to have said. "Fight when and where you damn please; we all know you'll fight!"

Fortunately for John Schofield and the Union army, this observation was to prove uncannily accurate. When the Confederates came swarming through the hole at the center of the Union line, Opdycke leaped to his feet, roared at his seven regiments of Illinois, Ohio, and Wisconsin men, and charged directly at the graycoats. One of Opdycke's officers, young Colonel Arthur MacArthur, pressed forward with the rest even after his horse was shot out from underneath him. He was shot in the shoulder, chest, and knee. MacArthur stabbed the Confederate color bearer with his saber. MacArthur would survive the battle to father another famous general named Douglas. But many of his enemy that day would not. After a brief but furious struggle, the only Confederate breakthrough of the day was shoved back through the breach-- back into the killing zone, where it could be raked by concentrated rifle and artillery fire at point-blank range.



After this, the Confederate attack never had a chance.

Additional Notes Concerning The Battle of Franklin

- Local Time and Astronomical Data - According to the US Naval Observatory, the escape of Schofield's Union Army at Spring Hill on November 29, 1864 was accomplished in complete darkness. The sun set (top of the Sun's disk at a level horizon) at 5:35pm local time and there was no moonlight - the 29th was a new moon.
- At Franklin November 30th, the sun set at 5:34pm local time - (local time was Military Railroad Time and is the equivilent of today's Daylight Savings Time). The sliver crescent moon (3% of the Moon's visible disk illuminated) provided negligible light and set at 7:08pm. Except for muzzle flashes, it was then pitch dark.
- The last soldier to die from wounding at Franklin was Rebel Heinrich Harmier of Robertson's Battery. He was struck in the left eye by a minie ball, or a fragment, that lodged in his skull. Except for the loss of sight in that eye, Harmier did not have apparent long term physical or mental impairment. But the wound never completely healed. Recurring flare-ups of infection and excruciating headaches forced Harmier to repeatedly seek medical and finally, surgical relief. On Valantines Day, February 14, 1912, the old soldier died of his wound. At long last, Heinrich Harmier was released from the torment that began over 47 years earlier at The Battle of Franklin, Tennessee.

Where Is The Franklin Battlefield ?

When first-time Civil War tourists come to Franklin, they invariably ask the same question - "Just where is the battlefield ?" As it turns out, no matter where the visitor is in the older parts of Franklin proper, the technically correct answer is ".. you're standing on it." That answer may not always be true, but more than likely, it will.

That's because there were so many engagements in and around Franklin, especially during the last half of 1862 and the first half of 1863, as both armies vied for control of middle Tennessee. After the Federals occupied Franklin and built Fort Granger in spring 1863, Confederate forces continued strong probing actions to learn the location and strength of the Union forces.

The battle that the visitor is most likely asking about, of course, is the November 30, 1864 battle that was part of Hood's Campaign to retake Nashville and drive on north to the Ohio River - all planned to force the Federals to recall Sherman from his drive to the sea, - or divert units from Sheridan's forces now in control of the Shennadoah Valley - or siphon off troops from Grant's siege of Richmond and Petersburg.

The 1864 battle was fought along the south edge of Franklin - which was then at the Carter farm. Over time, all of the trench line, and the battleground south of it, has gradually become quiet neighborhoods and small businesses - except for a small section of trench line near Hwy 96 West and 11th Avenue, and the 11 acres of protected ground around the Carter House.

The Franklin Battlefield

The trench line ran west from the Harpeth River just north of where the Lewisburg Pike crosses the railroad, west to the Carter House, then northwest into the Hincheyville area, and then north to the Harpeth River just west of the Old Cemetery. (Medium Size Map --- Large Map)

The most intense fighting occurred along this line between the Lewisburg Pike and Natchez Street. In those just three or four hundred yards to either side of the Carter House, nearly 10,000+ Americans were killed, wounded or captured during the late afternoon and early evening of that fateful November day. In that small place, the leadership and strength of Hood's army were fatally weakened. On that autumn day, the Confederate Army of Tennessee, that once terrorized its enemies, began an irreversable, gradual slip from the sharp focus of being into the soft haze of remembered history.

This map was produced for the Second Battlefield Preservation Conference held in Franklin on October 23, 1993. The map was used at the Conference by archaeologist Fred Prouty in his presentation "Where Is The Franklin Battlefield".

Franklin Tennessee
American Civil War
November 30, 1864

Having lost a good opportunity at Spring Hill to hurt significantly the Union Army, Gen. John B. Hood marched in rapid pursuit of Maj. Gen. John M. Schofield's retreating Union army. Schofield's advance reached Franklin about sunrise on November 30 and quickly formed a defensive line in works thrown up by the Yankees in the spring of 1863, on the southern edge of town. Schofield wished to remain in Franklin to repair the bridges and get his supply trains over them. Skirmishing at Thompson's Station and elsewhere delayed Hood's march, but, around 4:00 pm, he marshaled a frontal attack against the Union perimeter. Two Federal brigades holding a forward position gave way and retreated to the inner works, but their comrades ultimately held in a battle that caused frightening casualties. When the battle ceased, after dark, six Confederate generals were dead or had mortal wounds. Despite this terrible loss, Hood's army, late, depleted and worn, crawled on toward Nashville.

Description: In a last, desperate attempt to force Maj. Gen. William T. Sherman's army out of Georgia, Gen. John Bell Hood led the Army of Tennessee north toward Nashville in November 1864. Although he suffered a terrible loss at Franklin, he continued toward Nashville. In operating against Nashville, he decided that destruction of the Nashville & Chattanooga Railroad and disruption of the Union army supply depot at Murfreesboro would help his cause. He sent Maj. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, on December 4, with an expedition, composed of two cavalry divisions and Maj. Gen. William B. Bate's infantry division, to Murfreesboro. On December 2, Hood had ordered Bate to destroy the railroad and blockhouses between Murfreesboro and Nashville and join Forrest for further operations; on December 4, Bate's division attacked Blockhouse No. 7 protecting the railroad crossing at Overall Creek, but Union forces fought it off. On the morning of the 5th, Forrest headed out toward Murfreesboro, splitting his force, one column to attack the fort on the hill and the other to take Blockhouse No. 4, both at La Vergne. Upon his demand for surrender at both locations, the Union garrisons did so. Outside La Vergne, Forrest hooked up with Bate's division and the command advanced on to Murfreesboro along two roads, driving the Yankees into their Fortress Rosencrans fortifications, and encamped in the city outskirts for the night. The next morning, on the 6th, Forrest ordered Bate's division to "move upon the enemy's works." Fighting flared for a couple of hours, but the Yankees ceased firing and both sides glared at each other for the rest of the day. Brig. Gen. Claudius Sears's and Brig. Gen. Joseph B. Palmer's infantry brigades joined Forrest's command in the evening, further swelling his numbers. On the morning of the 7th, Maj. Gen. Lovell Rousseau, commanding all of the forces at Murfreesboro, sent two brigades out under Brig. Gen. Robert Milroy on the Salem Pike to feel out the enemy. These troops engaged the Confederates and fighting continued. At one point some of Forrest's troops broke and ran causing disorder in the Rebel ranks; even entreaties from Forrest and Bate did not stem the rout of these units. The rest of Forrest's command conducted an orderly retreat from the field and encamped for the night outside Murfreesboro. Forrest had destroyed railroad track, blockhouses, and some homes and generally disrupted Union operations in the area, but he did not accomplish much else. The raid on Murfreesboro was a minor irritation.

Alfred Terry was placed in command of a "Provisional Corps," including Paine's Division of U.S. Colored Troops, and supported by a naval force of nearly 60 vessels, to renew operations against the fort. After a preliminary bombardment directed by Rear Adm. David D. Porter on January 13, Union forces landed and prepared an attack on Maj. Gen. Robert Hoke's infantry line. On the 15th, a select force moved on the fort from the rear. A valiant attack late in the afternoon, following the bloody repulse of a naval landing party carried the parapet. The Confederate garrison surrendered, opening the way for a Federal thrust against Wilmington, the South's last open seaport on the Atlantic coast.

December 7-27, 1864

Maj. Gen. Benjamin Butler was relieved of command of the Army of the James and assigned to lead an amphibious expedition against Fort Fisher, which protected Wilmington, the South's last open seaport on the Atlantic coast. Learning that large numbers of Union troops had embarked from Hampton Roads on December 13, Lee dispatched Hoke's Division to meet the expected attack on Fort Fisher. On December 24, the Union fleet under Rear Adm. David D. Porter arrived to begin shelling the fort. An infantry division disembarked from transports to test the fort's defenses. The Federal assault on the fort had already begun when Hoke approached, discouraging further Union attempts. Butler called off the expedition on December 27 and returned to Fort Monroe.

Campaign: Operations against Fort Fisher and Wilmington (January-February 1865)

Date(s): February 12-22, 1865

Principal Commanders: Maj. Gen. John Schofield [US]; Gen. Braxton Bragg [CS]

Forces Engaged: Cox's, Ames's, and Paine's Divisions (12,000) [US]; Hoke's Division, Hagood's Brigade (6,600) [CS]

Estimated Casualties: 1,150 total

Description: With the fall of Fort Fisher to Maj. Gen. Alfred Terry's and Rear Adm. David Porter's combined operation on January 15, Wilmington's days were numbered. About 6,600 Confederate troops under Maj. Gen. Robert Hoke held Fort Anderson and a line of works that prevented the Federals from advancing up the Cape Fear River. Early February, the XXIII Corps arrived at Fort Fisher, and Maj. Gen. John Schofield took command of the Union forces. Schofield now began a series of maneuvers to force the Confederates to abandon their defenses. On February 16, Jacob Cox's division ferried across the river to confront Fort Anderson, while Porter's gunboats bombarded the fort. On February 17-18, Ames's division conducted a wide flanking march to get in the fort's rear. Seeing the trap ready to close, the Confederates evacuated Fort Anderson during the night of the 18th-19th, withdrawing to Town Creek to form a new defensive line. The next day, this line collapsed to increasing Federal pressures. During the night of February 21-22, Gen. Braxton Bragg ordered the evacuation of Wilmington, burning cotton, tobacco, and government stores.

Result(s): Union victory

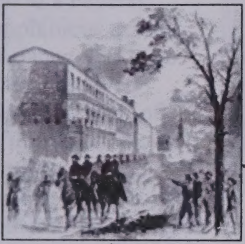
The Battle of Bentonville, fought March 19-21, 1865, was the last full-scale action of the Civil War in which a Confederate army was able to mount a tactical offensive. This major battle, the largest ever fought in North Carolina, was the only significant attempt to defeat the large Union army of Gen. William T. Sherman during its march through the Carolinas in the spring of 1865.



Columbia, South Carolina

Sherman Strikes into South Carolina . . .

The year 1864 ended with Sherman's grand army in possession of Savannah, Georgia, following its infamous "March to the Sea" from Atlanta to the coast. The fall of Atlanta had virtually assured the re-election of U.S. President Abraham Lincoln that November, and the tide of war further shifted in favor of the Union. Ulysses S. Grant, general-in-chief of all Federal armies, now wanted Sherman's army to unite with the Army of the Potomac, under Grant's personal supervision in Virginia. Grant wanted Sherman's men ferried by sea to the Virginia fighting front, where the combined Federal forces might deal a fatal blow to Gen. Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia. The Confederacy's principal Eastern army, on the wane after four hard years of keeping the Federals at bay, was still in position between Grant and the Confederate capital at Richmond.

But William T. Sherman had other ideas, and proposed a bold strike into the very heart of the Confederacy with 60,000 men—a march northward through the Carolinas. On Christmas Eve 1864, he explained to Grant:

> I feel no doubt whatever as to our future plans. I have thought them over so long and well that they appear as clear as daylight. I left Augusta [Ga.] untouched on purpose, because the enemy will be in doubt as to my objective point . . . whether it be Augusta or Charleston [S.C.], and will naturally divide his forces . . . . [O]n the hypothesis of ignoring Charleston and taking Wilmington, I would then favor a movement direct on Raleigh. The game is then up with Lee.

Grant, who held his friend and subordinate Sherman in the highest esteem, replied on December 27:

> Your confidence in being able to march up and join this army pleases me, and I believe it can be done. The effect of such a campaign will be to disorganize the South, and prevent the organization of new armies from their broken fragments . . . . If time is given, the fragments may be collected together and many of the [Confederate] deserters reassembled. If we can, we should act to prevent this . . . [Y]ou may make your preparations to start on your northern expedition without delay. Break up the railroads in South and North Carolina, and join the armies operating against Richmond as soon as you can.

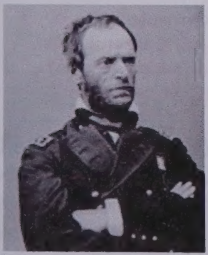
As Sherman gained a lodgment in South Carolina, Fort Fisher fell to a Federal amphibious assault on January 15, 1865. This effectively closed the port of Wilmington, North Carolina—the hub of the last major supply route to Lee's army in Virginia. Wilmington itself would fall in February to the combined forces of Gen. Alfred H. Terry's Provisional Corps and Gen. John Schofield's XXIII Corps, hammering yet another nail into the coffin of the Confederacy. Grant's orders to Schofield specified that "Your movements are intended as co-operative with Sherman through the States of South and North Carolina. The first point to be attained is to secure Wilmington. Goldsborough will then be your objective point." Grant realized the importance of Goldsboro as the inland junction of the Wilmington & Weldon and Atlantic & North Carolina railroads. At least 425 miles of enemy territory lay between "Uncle Billy" and his ultimate destination in North Carolina, and a rendezvous there with Schofield and Terry.



William T. Sherman

Sherman's army advanced on February 1, 1865, meeting little resistance as it marched northward. General P. G. T. Beauregard did in fact divide his Confederate forces to safeguard Charleston to the east, and Augusta, Georgia to the west. This unfortunate arrangement allowed Sherman's minions to pass through the heart of South Carolina virtually unopposed, cutting a wide swath of destruction as they advanced. With the city of Columbia and much of the South Carolina countryside in ruins, only North Carolina lay between Sherman's army and a junction with U. S. Grant's army in Virginia. To make matters worse for the Southern war effort, the Army of Tennessee and other Confederate forces in the Carolinas were widely scattered. With Robert E. Lee's army bogged down against Grant in the trenches of Petersburg, and Sherman's force swiftly approaching from the south, it was a dire time for the Confederacy.

As general-in-chief of all Southern armies, Lee questioned General Beauregard's ability to oppose the Federals. As the Union juggernaut continued northward, Lee appealed to the Confederate War Department for a replacement, explaining that he knew of no officer who had so much "the confidence of the army and people" as Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. Lee's choice for the command was not a popular one with Confederate president Jefferson Davis, who deemed Joe Johnston a personal enemy.

Joseph E. Johnston

In one of the great personality clashes of the Civil War, the troubled relationship between Davis and Johnston came to a head in mid-July 1864, during the Atlanta Campaign. Furious with Johnston for retreating before Sherman in Georgia instead of engaging him in a decisive battle, Davis promptly removed "Old Joe" from command of the Army of Tennessee. But the Confederate president counted few options as Sherman approached North Carolina, and with Lee's earnest request Davis gave in and reluctantly allowed the general-in-chief to call upon Johnston for his services.

On February 22, 1865, Lee sent an urgent dispatch to his old friend Johnston, who had retired to Lincolnton, North Carolina:

> Assume command of the Army of Tennessee and all troops in Department of South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. Assign General Beauregard to duty under you, as you may select. Concentrate all available forces and drive back Sherman.

Though he felt the effort to stop Sherman had come too late, a weary Johnston methodically set out to collect the scattered array of Confederate forces at his disposal. The troop concentration he would effect in North Carolina on short notice, and the resulting battle at Bentonville, would stand in sharp contrast to the general's earlier war record.

LAWRENCE COUNTY ORGANIZATION

Lawrence County was organized in 1817 and named in honor of Commander James Lawrence, U.S. Navy. The first places of commerce were built in Palestine, the first county seat. Lawrence County, located in the south-central part of the state has an area of 450 square miles.

Much of the county has karst topography and is underlaid with Indiana Limestone, one of the world's most durable building materials. Limestone quarrying is also the county's oldest continuous, organized industry. Limestone is comprised of fossils, the most dominant being the Oolitic. Lawrence County limestone has been used to build the Empire State Building, Pentagon, National Cathedral, Indiana Statehouse, Soldiers and Sailors Monument and numerous other goverment buildings, monuments and statuary both here and abroad.

Other Industry in Lawrence County includes one of the world's largest aluminum foundries, that being GM Powertrain, which produces transmission cases, pistons and the NorthStar Cadillac block, FORD Electronics and LEHIGH PORTLAND CEMENT, to name only a few.

Another map is available from the Lawrence County Tourism Commission detailing locations of many points of interest. One of the most notable is Spring Mill State Park, the second most visited park in the state after Brown County. Spring Mill has an operational grist mill and pioneer village, several miles of hiking trails and a memorial to Astronaut Gus Grissom, one of three astronauts who call Lawrence County home, along with Charlie Walker and Ken Bowersox.

Lawrence County was organized in 1817 and named in honor of Commander James Lawrence, U.S. Navy. The first places of commerce were built in Palestine, the first county seat. Lawrence County, located in the south-central part of the state has an area of 450 square miles.

Much of the county has karst topography and is underlaid with Indiana Limestone, one of the world's most durable building materials. Limestone quarrying is also the county's oldest continuous, organized industry. Limestone is comprised of fossils, the most dominant being the Oolitic. Lawrence County limestone has been used to build the Empire State Building, Pentagon, National Cathedral, Indiana Statehouse, Soldiers and Sailors Monument and numerous other goverment buildings, monuments and statuary both here and abroad.

Other industry in Lawrence County includes one of the world's largest aluminum foundries, that being GM Powertrain, which produces transmission cases, pistons and the NorthStar Cadillac block, FORD Electronics and LEHIGH PORTLAND CEMENT, to name only a few.

Another map is available from the Lawrence County Tourism Commission detailing locations of many points of interest. One of the most notable is Spring Mill State Park, the second most visited park in the state after Brown County. Spring Mill has an operational grist mill and pioneer village, several miles of hiking trails and a memorial to Astronaut Gus Grissom, one of three astronauts who call Lawrence County home, along with Charlie Walker and Ken Bowersox.

History of Danville

Danville, the county seat of Hendricks County, is the oldest town in the county. The first settlement in the Danville area was in 1823, and a year later, the county was officially organized as a unit of government on April 1, 1824.

The town was laid out in the summer of 1824 when four citizens each donated 20 acres to form the new community. Lots were sold during a three-day auction, bringing $3 to $115.

Danville was officially incorporated in 1835 and named in honor of Daniel Wick, brother of William Wick, who was conducting court in the county at that time.

Danville is the home of the former Central Normal College and later Canterbury College, which gained national recognition for graduates who impacted the field of education throughout the country.

Danville Today

Danville is a rapidly growing community in the midst of an expanding metropolitan area (Indianapolis). The population of Danville is approximately 4800, with a projected growth to 5900 by the year 2000.

Currently, Danville Chamber of Commerce is participating in a project for the revitalization of the downtown area, as well as promoting economic growth of the community by attracting new business to the area.

Housing needs are being met by major housing developments which will extend the corporation's boundaries as more than nine subdivisions will accommodate some 1300 new homes in the future.

A four-lane highway (US 36) was opened in 1986 to provide a quick and easy commute to the Indianapolis area via an Interstate Highway System.

Town Government (Police & Fire)

Town Government is represented by an elected five-member Town Council, which is served by an elected Clerk-Treasurer and an appointive Town Manager.

Also representing town government are a Plan Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals and a Park Advisory Board.

The Town of Danville boasts an excellent 10-member police department with full-time dispatchers. All officers are Indiana Law Enforcement Academy graduates.

Fire protection is served by a volunteer organization of 29 individuals, with 5 pieces of fire-fighting apparatus and 2 rescue units.

In the near future, the community and all of Hendricks County will be served by the E-911 Emergency service.

The Town of Danville also has 16 other employees who serve the Street, Wastewater Control, Water and Park Departments.
